Steven Schiffenhaus, DMD

Dr. Schiffenhaus received his Doctoral degree at Midwestern College of Dental Medicine, Arizona as well as an MA in Biomedical Sciences. He received his BS in Molecular Bioscience & Biotechnology and a MS in Molecular & Cellular Biology from Arizona State University. Dr. Schiffenhaus practices with a Biomimetic philosophy utilizing advanced adhesion and CAD-CAM technology to restore teeth as minimally invasive as possible. He is the creator of the Biomimetic Advanced Adhesive Restorative Dentistry (BAARD) institute, which provides comprehensive On-Demand training in Biomimetic & Advanced Adhesive Restorative Design. The online institute provides access to all current online course content and any new courses added during the membership period. This content will train students in the science & fundamentals of Biomimetics & Advanced Adhesion. The main goal of the institute is for students to receive the necessary training to implement Biomimetic & Advanced Adhesive techniques into their practice immediately. To accomplish that goal, not only is the content delivered in lecture format, but also copious in-depth demo videos to simulate a hands-on workshop experience virtually.
